DESTRUCTIVE HAIL STORM .-- We have been permitted to make the following extract from a trivate letter received by a gentleman in this city, from his brother in Powhatan county, written on Saturday evening last.

We have bad, this evening, the worst hail storm I ever saw. The hail stones were larger than partridge eggs and continued to fall till the ground was white with them. The clouds passed backwards and forwards over us three or four times, and when the bail ceased falling, we had a terrific 'blow,' and the beaviest shower of rain that I ever witnessed. The damage done by the storm in this immediate neighborhood, is very great. The growing crops have been beaten down, the wheat is prostrated and nearly ruined, and our gardens are literally torn to pieces. The hail stones were so large that they broke out the window glasses and almost stripped the forest trees of their green foliage."

was equally, if not more severe, and destructive. Mr. M. E. Gary exhibited to us last evening a ban ikerchief full of bail-stones, which he picked up in the road, where they lay two or three feet in depth yesterday. He informed us that it was especially severe between Gregory's tavern and Miles Chalkley's, vegetation being completely cut up, wheat destroyed, trees stripped of their leaves and windows broken. Large numbers of fowls, and even pigs, were killed. The storm appeared to extend over a space about five miles in width. Persons residing in Chesterfield aver that they saw hail-stones as large as hen's eggs; indeed, some of those which we saw last evening, twenty-four hours subsequent to the storm, were nearly as large as partidge eggs The utmost consternation prevails in the locality in consequence of this disastrous visitation.

The Mail Train, from Petersburg, Saturday evening, came in contact with a fallen tree at Gregory's Cut, while a terrible thunder storm was prevailing. The locomotive, and the second class passenger car were badly damaged, and the ladies' car was somewhat injured; but fortunately no person was Wheat is dull and unchanged; fair to good red burt.
